Mayor’s welcome

Council is a strong supporter of small business, as it plays a significant role in the Australian economy and provides employment options to our community. In this issue we feature some of the new small businesses to our town centre (page 12) and focus on one small business in particular, who is helping young people by offering vocational training (page 15).

As many of us will be spending our summer enjoying a ‘staycation’, please think about shopping local whenever you can. After a successful pop up, Anglicare WA in partnership with the Town have opened a more permanent second-hand clothing store in St Quentin’s, and your unwanted items are always a welcome donation (page 6).

Our focus on restimulating the night-time economy has already seen several events and activations in the town centre. In partnership with the Claremont Quarter, the Town will welcome a special open-air pop-up during January and February, a place to meet friends and family, enjoy beverages and a concierge food service (page 14).

Finally, I am thrilled that the Claremont Museum will be reopening in the New Year. This valuable community facility now has a brand-new space, Freshwater Gallery, which is a multi-purpose area for exhibitions and presentations. Read all about the upcoming exhibitions in this edition (page 4).

Best wishes

Resonating Circles

The newly redeveloped McKenzie Pavilion is home to the latest addition of the Town’s public artwork collection, funded as part of the Percent for Art Scheme.

Working with the existing footprint of the building, the recently completed design incorporates large glass sliding doors and terraced seating, allowing the building to flow out into the surrounding landscape, connecting with the newly installed contemporary sculpture Resonating Circles by Claremont artist Simon Youngleson.

Resonating Circles explores kinetic energy and the resonance of a sequence of circles, in ratio, all embedded in the design of the human form. As an award-winning architect, Simon Youngleson’s sculptural work arose from an exploration into how the human scale can create a sense of belonging and well-being in architecture and design.

“There is a very strong connection between human scale and well-being, namely our relationship to shape, form, measurement and enclosure manifest in our emotions or feelings of satisfaction, simplicity, clarity and order. Through universal concepts of repetition, symmetry, order and composition, a sense of human scale and proportion is capable of inducing a sense of well-being and connection to the natural order of things”, says Simon.

The complex curving lines in the large steel sculpture create shadows that will move and change throughout the day, and seasons, as the sun moves through the sky, resembling the movement of a ball in motion.

“During the day the interconnection of dark shadows and bright sunny rings will create an ever-changing kinetic composition on the sculpture and surrounding area, providing a beautiful ethereal effect.”

McKenzie Pavilion is located in Cresswell Park, Mitford St, Swanbourne, and is home to the Claremont Nedlands Cricket Club and Westside Wolves Hockey Club

Sustainable fashion returns to Claremont

Following on from a successful six-month partnership between Anglicare WA and the Town of Claremont, Lemon Tree, a pre-loved clothing boutique, now has an exciting new Claremont location on St Quentin Avenue.

Lemon Tree is a unique offering for the area and encourages more sustainable solutions to buying in 2021 and beyond. The store showcases a large selection of high quality pre-loved clothing and shoes for men, women and children.

As well as securing designer pieces without the designer price tag, shoppers will also be helping the environment by diverting clothing from landfill.

The pop-up store previously received 160kg of high-quality donations and sold 705kg of clothing and accessories, diverting 865kg's in total from potential landfill, over the six-month pilot program.

“The Town of Claremont has been instrumental in embedding Anglicare WA in their community, whilst leading the way in providing sustainable retail options with social conscience.” Mark Glasson, Anglicare WA CEO

All proceeds from Lemon Tree will continue to go towards Anglicare WA programs including the Young Hearts Child Counselling Service. Young Hearts is a domestic violence counselling service for children, dedicated to breaking the cycle of family and domestic violence. $58,634 revenue was generated from the pop-up store over the course of the pilot program enabling 220 children, parents and caregivers to attend Young Hearts Child Counselling sessions. 130 of the 220 unique clients were new to the service.

The store will be open for a minimum of 12 months and will also host several events and workshops during this time.

A Night on Bay View Singing for the soul

A Night on Bay View will return to Claremont Park on Saturday 19 February. The free annual concert featuring the West Australian Symphony Orchestra (WASO) offers an evening of music in a beautiful setting and is a highlight in Claremont’s cultural calendar.

Internationally acclaimed soprano Samantha Clarke will join WASO on stage to enchant and entertain with a special repertoire which celebrates great classical, film and Australian music.

Clarke, a WAPPA graduate who secured a scholarship at the acclaimed Royal Northern College of Music, has performed extensively in the UK and Europe, returning to her Perth roots to perform alongside the orchestra.

Samantha who grew up in Mosman Park said, “I have many fond memories of coming to Claremont after school and it is so special to be back here at home to perform alongside WASO – a world class orchestra - in front of family and friends.”

When asked about her passion for opera Samantha said “I have always loved to sing and perform and I was drawn to the challenges that opera presents. I love that when an opera singer opens their mouth you are getting a completely raw, untouched sound - no mics or amplification. It feels instinctual to me and when I feel really connected to a piece, I really do think it feels like you are singing from your soul.”

Join us for a magical evening under the stars, showcasing WA’s homegrown talent. Bring your own picnic or enjoy a wide variety of food trucks that will be on offer at Claremont Park from 6pm with the concert starting at 7pm.

Welcome back to Claremont Museum

Come back to your local Museum this summer and see all that is on offer for you to learn about the history of the suburb you live in. The Museum will be reopening with two new exhibitions to share more treasures and tales of Claremont’s past.

Ten Stories looks at the tale behind ten interesting items from the Museum’s collection. A picture is worth a thousand words, and an object certainly does too! From the Sunflower Chinese Restaurant statue that didn’t want to leave Claremont to the Charcoal Box Iron that de-creased MLC uniforms, these are unique stories not to be missed! You also have the opportunity to share your favourite Claremont story. We look forward to hearing all your memories.

Over the years a frequent query at the Museum has been “How did my street get its name?” Museum staff have deep dived through the archives and come up with the reasons behind the naming of almost every street, road, lane and avenue in Claremont. This exhibition will be featured in our new Freshwater Gallery and will include historic maps, photos and artefacts. Come along and discover the story behind your street.

A new program ‘Lost Skills’ will be available the third Sunday of each month. The activities aim to revitalise some of the skills and pastimes that were once necessary for survival but are now considered crafts of the past. Calligraphy, sewing, weaving, baking bread, fishing, painting and bush medicine will all be on offer through the program. Make sure you book in quickly when these are offered, they are sure to be popular!

And of course, Mrs Herbert’s Lessons will be back on offer to schools. Students will step back in time to do some old-fashioned washing on the washboards, writing on slate and cooking in the wood fired stove... but they need to watch out for the cane and the dunce cap!

Key Dates

- Sunday 20 February – Museum Re-open
- Thursday 3 March - First History in a Coffee Cup
- Sunday 20 March - Grand Opening Family Day & first Lost Skills session

New Opening Hours 2022

- Monday – Thursday: 10am – 4pm
- Closed Friday - Saturday
- Sunday: 10am – 2pm

Summer nights

Over the summer nights, in the heart of Claremont, there will be a special place where you can eat, drink, enjoy live music and catch up with friends. A place like no other. Welcome to the Otherside; a boutique pop-up experience in the Town Centre Square, St Quentin Avenue.

Starting 26 January 2022 until 28 February 2022. The Otherside will run every Wednesday to Sunday, 12pm to 9pm. With live contemporary WA music, an array of beverages to choose from, concierge food service from local restaurants, as well as engaging activities for the kids. This is the right side to spend your summer nights.

Coming soon...

Show-stopping art

Be mesmerized by ‘Vibrant’, a high impact inflatable ephemeral artwork, which will be installed and exhibited in the Claremont Town Centre in March.

Intended to spark curiosity and a sense of play and childlike wonder, turning heads, raising smiles, and transforming the ordinary towards the inspired. The artwork will enliven the precinct and provide a platform for a local creative to showcase their work.

Stylish sessions

‘Claremont Edited’ is a series of intimate, engaging, and unique events that highlight Claremont’s fashion, design and art credentials. Designed to showcase not only the well-established International and Australian high-end fashion boutiques, but also the unique and up and coming local fashion, beauty and lifestyle retailers in CLaremont.

Expect to be delighted and enthralled by these exclusive events that will showcase why Claremont is the premium destination for fashion.

Practice makes perfect coffee

Owner and chief barista of Stand'In Room, Paul Loiterton, is preparing young women from Methodist Ladies College for their entrance into the working world by giving them valuable experience at the popular coffee shop.

Paul first came up with the idea over a coffee with the then Scotch Head of Boarding. The original idea was to teach borders a skill and within a month from their first meeting he had the program up and running every Wednesday for two hours, with four boarders at a time coming in to learn new skills.

It wasn't long before neighbouring schools heard about the idea. Many of the teachers from MLC would come in to Stand'In Room to grab a coffee and that's where all it all started.

"At the beginning I would visit MLC twice a year but then the program quickly rolled into a work experience program. We are now doing full vocational training," said Paul.

"The main idea is to teach young people about hospitality and in particular coffee and its history and show this generation that hospitality can be a job and a career."

"We don't just want to teach our kids about coffee but hospitality, small business and world history."

The feedback has been positive from MLC and the program now attracts a lot of MLC students as well as students from John XX111 College and PLC.

Ms Lana Hinton, Food Science Teacher said "Students now also have the opportunity to undertake work experience at the coffee shop, gaining invaluable life skills. Paul is an excellent mentor, both patient and thoughtful, and has a great sense of humour. Having a barista qualification enables students to gain employment not only in Perth, but anywhere around the world. Making a perfect coffee for a customer takes practice and love."

Did you know The Town of Claremont's rich history can be explored through a series of heritage walking trails? Collect your free, beautifully illustrated maps from the Council office and take a trip down memory lane.

Cobblers and Convicts

This trail takes you through one of Claremont's oldest residential areas. You will meander past the site of the Convict Depot, marvel at some of the Town's most historically significant buildings and explore the beauty of Freshwater Bay. Claremont Museum is situated along this route and is a must see for those seeking an even deeper understanding of the Town's history.

The Yargine Track

This trail takes you on a journey around Lake Claremont and through the beautiful, hilly streets of Swanbourne. Explore the traditional camping and hunting grounds of the Noongar people, learn about the history of the Swanbourne shopping village, discover ANZAC Cottage and wonder at some of the most beautiful Federation era homes. While you're at Lake Claremont be sure to check out the growing number of public artworks on display.

Trail of Memories

This trail explores the different stages of Claremont's development history with Federation and Post War era housing providing a tangible reminder of Claremont's past. Learn about Claremont's working class heritage, colourful local identities of the past such as Jack Williams the horse-cab proprietor, and the 44th Battalion, adopted by Claremont residents as "their Battalion".

Rediscovering the Terrace

Did you know that trams used to run down Bay View Terrace and that St Quentin Avenue was originally a mainly residential street? Learn about the beginnings of the Claremont Town Centre, how it has evolved over the years, and the people and businesses that have made its history so intriguing.

Bush to Beach Trail

The Bush to Beach Trail lies on Whadjuk Noongar land and is part of the Whadjuk Trail Network. Trails are well marked with directional signs including an icon of the individual trail. Users should look for triangular trail markers on footpaths and bollards along the route.

The majority of the Bush to Beach trail is dog and cycle friendly, and can be walked in sections to suit walkers' abilities and available time.

Whadjuk Trail Network

The Whadjuk network of walking trails lies on Noongar land, connecting remnant bushland areas in the western suburbs of Perth. With links to iconic, heritage and Noongar trails in the area, they offer users a unique experience and appreciation for the land, catering for a large variety of interests. Trail users will appreciate expansive views from the Indian Ocean to the Perth skyline, while experiencing the diversity of remnant bushland areas so close to the city.

Trails are well marked with directional signs that include an icon and are suitable for all walkers, with a moderate level of fitness required in places. Users should look for triangular markers on footpaths and bollards along the route. Information relating to fauna, flora, and indigenous cultural heritage, is contained within the trails. The majority of trails are dog and cycle friendly and can be enjoyed in sections to suit walkers' abilities and available time.

Claremont's 'green' pool

While we promise the water is always blue, the Claremont Aquatic Centre has several initiatives which make it one of the greenest facilities in the state.

The Waterwise endorsed centre contains 2.6 million litres of water across its 50 metre and 25 metre pool. The energy required to heat them would be immense if not for the geothermal heating system. The system pumps natural artesian water from 600m below the surface.

The water comes up at 43 degrees heating the pool water to 28 degrees even through the cold winter months. It is estimated this saves more than 330 tonnes of greenhouse gases each year.

During recent upgrade works 90 solar panels forming 9 modules were installed on the roof of the main building. This system will provide on average over 4,000KWH of renewable energy per month for use through the facility.

Lifeguard and duty manager Steven says the Centre is heading in the right direction.

"Most Aquatic Centres use gas for their heating which is not good for the environment. Our geothermal system is great plus our new solar panels allow us to heat the water in the changerooms as well as the rest of the centre."

The splashpad uses recirculated water to make sure the 30,000 litres it holds doesn't go to waste.

Lifeguard Bridget says the pool, with its recent upgrades including a new disability access chair, make it one of the best community facilities around.

"My favourite thing about working at the pool is the people, I love having a chat to the regulars and our new upgrades have drawn many new people in."

"It's good to know we can provide this service in a sustainable way."

The Aquatic Centre is open year-round so check it out or why not visit on one of their family fun days coming up over the summer.

Our aquatic community

Gay Thornton

Claremont Aquatic Centre is one of the jewels in my neighbourhood. I love the setting of sparkling blue water, trees and lawns in which to commit to my necessary fitness and exercise.

I've been coming here since 2006. I'm not into gyms, I'm more a water person. I usually attend aqua aerobics class 3 times per week, all year round (even throughout winter). I feel fitter and more flexible and it's great for kick starting the day.

The recent renovations to the reception and the pool area in general have added a fresh and welcoming touch to the 1970's pool, which overall provides a great community feel. With the availability of coffee and other cafes close by, I've enjoyed time spent with a number of new friends I've made here.

Barrie Eves

I've been coming to the Claremont Aquatic Centre for over 30 years. I swim with a group of 30 swimmers trained by Paul Newsome. The older you get the more you have to work to take care of yourself. I love life so I want to make the most of it.

I've swam all over the world and this place is hard to beat, it's such an amazing natural environment and so healthy. Claremont have done a wonderful job here, and with the surroundings too. The amenities in the area are magnificent. You can swim, have a short game of golf, and then have coffee with friends, and it's amazing who you meet!

I think life is all about people and building relationships, and there's a real sense of community here.

Live long and set your body free. Stretch Lab Claremont is one of the first in Australia and is a unique wellness concept, offering customised assisted-stretch sessions. General Manager, Scott Suckling says, “people like getting comfort back, and after a 1:1 assisted stretching session with a flexologist who will identify tightness and imbalances in the body and customise a stretch routine, they begin to feel results.” “Although to really improve flexibility, enhance movement, reduce pain, and improve quality of life, regular attendance is best”, he said.

The Magic Coat

40 Rear Bay View Terrace

Di Wilcox created The Magic Coat, as after teaching she realized that young children were unable to focus on school because of all the worries they had going on in their lives. Di describes it as an “analogy of an imaginary coat that helps children to feel safe and deal with a number of difficult situations they may come across in their young lives.” The strategies for dealing with these situations are taught using a range of workshops, books and merchandise.

Chris Wilson Boxing

1/22 St Quentin Avenue

Chris and his team have launched their second studio in the western suburbs and are excited to be a part of the Claremont community. Chris’s boxing fitness classes are designed to be fun, for all levels and are bag-based sessions. They have all your favourite boxing moves and great music to match. Chris says, “expect to learn some swift moves and work up a sweat with these first of a kind boxing sessions in Perth.”

There will be daily classes, 7-days per week and all classes are 45 minutes.

Icon Claremont

Rear, 20 St Quentin Avenue

The venue has been given a Hamptons-inspired facelift and transformed into Icon Claremont. Manager Ryan Palazzolo said “Claremont is missing something for the older market at the moment — we have Club Bayview, which is solely focused around the young kids, and we also have the older ladies and older gents, the more refined individuals that want to go out.”

Picnic perfection

Meet our lucky winners who nominated their favourite picnic spots in Claremont and got to enjoy a picnic from Pronto Butcher, along with a beautifully hand-crafted picnic table thanks to the Showgrounds Community Men's Shed.

Two years ago we got married in this park, under the Moreton Bay fig trees. Now we enjoy sitting in the sun here, coffees in hand, with our baby girl. We love this park for its playground facilities, tree canopy, proximity to great coffee and access to Lake Claremont. – Emma

We chose Mrs Herbert's Park for our picnic as it has everything you need for a great family afternoon out. The foreshore for the kids to play, a playground, BBQ's, benches, toilets and most iconically a huge grass hill for the kids to run up and roll down, something many of us have done as children ourselves! – Amy

We love Lake Claremont, every time we come here, we feel transported to another place and it relaxes us all instantly! The Men's Shed have created a wonderful little picnic table and I can see my family using this time after time. Thank you to Pronto Butcher for making the perfect picnic hamper it was delish! – Catherine

Summer reading quest

The Claremont Community Hub and Library Summer Holiday Program will engage children in reading this summer with the help of some special guests.

Claremont Library will be joining a network of other libraries across the State to form part of the Summer Reading Quest. The program aims to maintain and improve kids' literacy skills over the summer break and connect people of different ages, demographics and communities.

The quest involves two parts, a reading log to complete where prizes are given for number of days read in a row and how long you read for. Adventure cards are challenges that will prompt kids to enjoy different books, formats, and activities like designing a book cover or cooking a recipe from a cookbook.

Michelle Campbell, young people's services librarian, was a part of the Perth Libraries of Western Australia working group which helped create the program.

"This is the first year that WA has developed their own program," she said. "I want to help promote libraries in the communities around WA and show the important role they play and help decrease the 'summer slide' in reading levels over the Christmas break."

"We will also be encouraging reading through a special trail around the Pool featuring local author/illustrator Kylie Howarth's picture book "Chip, the Lifeguard".

Logs and cards will be available to collect from the Claremont Community Hub and Library this summer. 'Chip the Lifeguard' reading will take place at 10:00am on Thursday 20 January at Claremont Aquatic Centre. Bookings are essential.

Celebrate the foreshore

You are invited to join us for a brand-new fun filled family day at Mrs Herbert’s Park, for the Town of Claremont’s first Celebrate the Foreshore event on Sunday 20 March. The event will run from 10am – 2pm and will showcase the stunning waterfront location at Freshwater Bay, promote safe recreational use of the river and celebrate the re-opening of the Town’s renovated museum facilities.

Celebrate the Foreshore promises to be action packed, with a wide variety of on-water activities such as stand-up paddle boarding, the opportunity to learn ‘lost skills’ such as fishing as part of the Museum’s workshop series, and a foreshore adventure trail. There will be fun for all the family with face painting, live entertainment, and food trucks for some well-earned refreshments.

Claremont resident and owner of WA Nautical, James Pontr  said “Celebrate the Foreshore will be a fantastic opportunity for a myriad of organisations to come together to educate and promote water safety in an interactive way. We hope the event will demonstrate how people can safely make the most of the fantastic resources that we have on our doorstep here in Claremont and give the public the opportunity to try out some water-based activities for themselves.”

James grew up in and around Claremont and spent most of his youth on the water of Freshwater Bay with his dad, an avid sailor, who hand built his own yacht Toroa IV by hand. Following a significant back injury, James said “sailing inspired me to overcome adversity”. James would like sailing to be accessible to all and has run several programs with local schools to raise the profile of the sport. Why not come along and give it a try yourself!
